New Associations is a tri-yearly magazine written for and by those interested in psychoanalytic thinking. It focuses on the application of psychoanalytic thinking to the social, cultural, and political world, rather than just to the consulting room.

It has an international readership of over 2,500, including all BPC Registrants, Trainees and Scholars who receive it as part of their membership. Subscription is available to anyone interested in psychoanalytic thinking.

New Associations addresses challenging topics and issues, and we welcome innovative articles that interrogate the profession itself — although we try to avoid too much introspection.

Some articles are commissioned, but we actively encourage submissions from all areas of the psychoanalytic and psychodynamic community. If you are interested in submitting an article or exploring an idea, email Helen Morgan, the Editor: helen.morgan@bpc.org.uk. Proposals will be discussed within the Editorial Board and, if accepted, a board member will work with you on your article.

New Associations is committed to involving a wide range of voices from the psychoanalytic and psychodynamic community. We encourage article submissions and applications to join our Editorial Board from – not limited to – trainees, people of colour, the LGBT+ community, and people working in related fields and academia. Please email Helen Morgan: helen.morgan@bpc.org.uk

Like the BPC, New Associations opposes any discrimination of any kind. This includes, but is not limited to, discrimination on the basis of age, race, gender, ethnic origin, religious belief, sexual orientation, gender identity, and position in professional hierarchy.

Views expressed in New Associations are not necessarily those of the BPC nor of New Associations editors.
